Welcome to the Land of Evernight

Put simply, Evernight is the home of all the Great Vampire Houses.

The Blood King ruled for many high moons before his own people rose up against him and killed him, and during this time, he furthered his powers by becoming a great necromancer. As you can imagine he feared no living or dead thing, but he was frightful of the twin suns above, as their life giving rays would burn away his undead body in just a few seconds.

So the Blood King cast his greatest spell, 'Eternal Gloom', which created an overcast cover of clouds, which would never depart his realm. Since that day forth, his vast realm became known as Evernight.

Even now after the Blood King has long since gone, his overcast world still remains. This huge dark feudal kingdom is a place of perpetual gloom and starless nights.

However, do not be fooled by the tales of Evernight you might hear in your local tavern...They would have you believe rather ignorantly that it is a place of total darkness or a never ending night, where undead monsters roam around unchecked and savage any living thing they can find.

The truth is that as all well travelled merchants will tell you Evernight is very much alive, with living cities, towns and villages, forests and lakes. They may be filled with odd folk, just find with being ruled by the dead, and with strange and monstrous creatures running wild in their woods, but they are all still very much alive. This is because Vampires still need living people to feed off. Furthermore, they are all still thinking, feeling (and some are) moral beings. So if they were surrounded by the dead, they would have all turned insane and given into the Blood King's calls long ago...

From what the travelling merchants tell us, yes it is a dark, gloomy and miserable place, but the peasants seem largely content with their lot in life... Their undead over lords do in fact take care of them and some even seem to actually care for them, as they protect and fight their wars. However, it is generally accepted amongst the masses, that if one or two of them disappear every so often, that is a fair price to pay for their protection and half decent life.

The Blood King

I believe the Blood King's back story will make some of the Vampire Families quite noble, as they keep a vigilant watch on his teeth to protect their people from the Blood King's return. However, the Families still need to feed upon their people, and some of the houses will in the past have succumb to their blood lust, and even given in to the Blood King's calls for gaining more power leading to civil wars between the Families. Also, other strong willed heads of families may not have succumb to the Blood King's calls, but they still actively seek to extend their influence outside of Evernight into the rest of Many.

With all these factors at play, I believe it will generate a rich mix of stories and characters for each of the Great Houses of Evernight.

The Families

Here is a brief description of the Families of Vampires that live in Evernight. Please note that these family names may be change in the future.

Each one of the Blood King's teeth represents a part of his powers when he was in the land of the living. Therefore, each house has a different aspect of his powers and will naturally focus on that trait.

Each one of the Blood King's teeth represents a part of his powers when he was in the land of the living. Therefore, each house has a different aspect of his powers and will naturally focus on that trait.

House Fray

House Fray's special enhancement thanks to their Blood King's Tooth is combat prowess, physical strength, agility and speed.

Note: all vampires have increased physical abilities, but it is House Fray that truly dominates in these areas.

The family of Frey is known to be a very noble house, and firm but fare with their people. Furthermore, they tend to feed off their dying citizens. This is seen as a great honour and a blessing for that individual to serve his or her lord and people one last time.

House Frey prefers to use professional living soldiers rather than the dead, beasts or monsters in battle. In fact, they see it as a good testing ground for their people to earn the blood kiss.

House Luking

The House of Luking all have some innate abilities in Magic and excel in this area. They are masters of Necromancy and prefer to use the dead to fight their battles, rather than depending on the weak willed living.

They tend to treat their people with a bit of disdain and quite poorly in comparison to the other houses. They simply see them as live stock to be managed.

House Vilemaul

As the other Houses often say, "Well... someone has to bear those teeth..."

House Vilemaul are a looked upon rather poorly by the others, as they are a wicked, cruel, sadistic family, and are obsessed by the pleasures of the flesh.

They rule their realm with an iron fist, and regularly mean out cruel and sadistic punishments upon their people for the smallest and meaningless crimes. But if you can believe it or not, they are the most religious realm in Evernight. It is through the Vilemaul's 'Red Church' that gives them the perfect excuse of serving out their 'Holy Justice' upon their own people.

In front of their citizens they act like virtuous saints, who are constantly 'cleansing' them of sins, for their own good of course... The other Houses are not fooled by their charade, and know of their true depravity behind closed doors.

As an outsider, it's easy to judge House Vilemaul, but they hold the Blood King's Evil within their Hearts, and their realm is (for all its wickedness) stable and 'peaceful'...

In battle they can work themselves into a religious frenzy and tear their enemies apart, or as they call them, the Sinners. They deploy their 'Lost Souls' into battle. These monsters are really their Skeleton Warriors, Gouls and Zombies they say have been given another chance by the Red Church to redeem themselves.

They even have a unique unit call the Lost, men turned into Vilemaul Vampires, but lost their minds in the process and have become wild blood crazed and savage things.

Using religion, House Vilemaul can just about justify any vile practice it seems...

It should be noted that House Vilemaul has nearly been wiped out many times in its past, with its Vampire Lords threading the other realms within Evernight. House Fray has even come to aid of its people a few times to save them from being completely wiped out by its own crazed Vilemaul Lords. However, since the creation of the Red Church a balance of power has been struck and the realm has become fairly stable...

The House of Maboro are Intelligent, Manipulative and masters of Illusion.

The House of Maboro rule over the Dream Land, which the natives believe is so called because it is a pretty good place to call your home. However, it is not...

When the people starve, House Maboro simply fills their bellies with imaginary bread and wine, but they will still drop dead of starvation... When a Maboro Vampire takes one of its people to feed from, they will simply wipe out the memories of their existence from those love ones they leave behind.

Most of the citizens of Dreamland don't even know who rules over them, they simply call them the Shadow Lords. It's best just to mind your own business and not to ask too many questions most of the Dreamlanders believe... or you might be paid a visit from one of these Shadow Lords...

On the battlefield House Maboro always use the weak-willed living to fight their battles, and will use their powers to take away their fears, making their warriors nearly unbreakable. Furthermore, they have no problem with manipulating lowly common wild beasts to fight alongside them.

This Great Family of Evernight are the masters of Shape Shifting. They have been known to turn into wolves to scour ahead of their main force to gather intelligence on their enemies. Or transform into wild savage bears, to tear down city gates. Also, rather impressively, their kin are the only vampires who can fly, by turning themselves in to bats.

House Gorren

House Gorren is a family of Vampires who have the power to 'Summon' wild Beasts to aid them in battle.

This family is a little rough around the edges, which makes some of the others turn their noses up at them...

Gorren Vampires turn away from stately homes or castles, and instead prefer to live wild in the woods and forests of their lands.

House Fray have a respect for this wild family, as they value all living things, and only take life during the Hunt and in their defence.

This House increases their numbers by hunting their own people, and if they survive, they will gain their Lords respect, and could even be turned into a Vampire themselves as a reward for outfoxing their masters.

On the battlefield House Gorren prefer to fight alongside wild beasts and monsters they have summoned to war. However, creatures of light and divinity will shy away from their calls to battle. On the other hand, beasts of shadow and vermin will always answer their calls for help.

General Rules

Points

Three Plains, like most tabletop war games has a 'Points' (or pts for short) system, which acts like currency for buying gaming pieces to add into your army's ranks. Points reflect a piece's ability to fight, shoot and cast magic, etc. So, the more costly a piece is in points, the more powerful it will be in battle, whilst the cheaper pieces tend to be much weaker.

Army Sizes

To ensure a fair game, both sides must spend the same amount of points on their armies. A good starting game size, especially for beginners, is 500 points to 1000 points each side, which would give you a short game only lasting for about an hour or two. Otherwise there is NO LIMIT to how big your game size can be, but be warned the bigger the game is, the longer it will take to play. For instance, a game size of 10,000 points, 5,000 points each side will easily take a whole day to play through.

Army Special Allowances (■ ▼ ◆ ★)

Other than keeping your army size within your points limit, you need to keep within your army's shapes (■ ▼ ◆ ★) allowances too. Each one of these shapes have a different meaning and values in relation to just what pieces you are allowed to have within your army's ranks, which is explain below.

■ Blocks ■

The 'Block ■' represents core or basic backbone units all armies need to fill out their ranks. Normally these can be archers, infantry and even some weaker forms of cavalry.

All armies must include a certain amount of block worthy pieces within its ranks. The amount of blocks in an army has to use is determined by using the 'Army Special Allowances Chart', which can be found on the bottom right of this page. To use the chart relate your army size in points to the chart. For instance, a 1500pts army must contain at least 2 block worth of gaming pieces within it.

▼ Triangles ▼

A piece's 'Triangles ▼' represent greatness or the ability to lead an individual may have, so the number of triangles allowed within an army is limited because these pieces are much rarer than the block worthy pieces.

Using the Army Allowances Chart found underneath, find your army size in points on the chart and depending on its size it will indicate just how many triangles your army is entitled to use up too. For instance, a 2000pts army can use up to 4.5 triangles, but cannot go over that limit.

Army Special Allowances Chart

Army Size	■	▼	◆	★
1 to 500 points	+1	0-3	0-2	1 ★ per
501 to 1,000	+1.5	0-4	0-3	1pt to

points
1,001 to 1,500 points	+2	0-4.5	0-3.75
1,501 to 2,000 points	+2.5	0-5	0-4.5
2,001 to 2,500 points	+3	0-5.5	0-5.25
2,501 to 3,000 points	+3.5	0-6	0-6
3,001 to 3,500 points	+4	0-6.5	0-6.75
3,501 to 4,000 points	+4.5	0-7	0-7.5
+500 points	+0.5	+0.5	+0.75

◆ Diamonds ◆

'Diamonds ◆' represent how rare or unique a piece is. So the more diamonds a piece has the rarer and more unlikely it is going to make an appearance on the battlefield.

Using the Army Allowances Chart found at the bottom of the last page, find your army size in points on the chart and depending on its size it will indicate just how many diamonds your army is entitled to use up too. For instance, a 3000pts army can use up to 6 diamonds, but cannot go over that limit.

★ Stars ★

A 'Star ★' is always attached to the most rarest and special of gaming pieces.

All armies start off with one star. However, each time an army grows past 4000pts; it may use an additional star.

An army may have more than one start worthy piece within its point limits, providing they are not the same kind of piece. For instance, if an army totalling in size of 6000pts, that army could contain two of one kind of start worthy piece within it and two of another kind.

Mixing Allowance Shapes

4,000pts
2 ★ per 1pt to 8,000pts
3 ★ per 1pt to 12,000pts
4 ★ per 1pt to 16,000pts

Some piece's profiles will allow you to mount a character on a beast and if both have a certain cost in allowance shapes, both the beast's and character's Allowance Shapes values must be added together. For instance, a General costs 1 triangle and is mounted on a beast that costs you a further 2 diamonds, the total cost of that piece (the general mounted on a beast) would cost you 1 triangle and 2 diamonds.

Putting an Army Together

Before playing a game, a player must write-up an 'Army List'. An army list contains all the different types of gaming pieces they have, how many models are contained in a unit. Most importantly, an Army List should include how much each unit, hero and beast piece will cost in points and shapes.

As long as these key points are in an army list, how it is written up and presented is up to the writer (or the controlling player of that side). For instance, a player could add additional information, like a rough battle plan or notes about each piece's weapons, armour and any magic item's special abilities they have.

The main reason why army lists are so important is because it makes it much easier to award Victory Points to an opposing player at the end of the game, which is explained in full on page 21 in the Three Plains Rulebook.

In any case, it is also good practice to have a well written army list, as they can give a player instant information on their own gaming pieces without them sifting through rulebooks. Furthermore, if one side accuses the other of over spending on certain pieces in an army, then the accused side can instantly prove they have kept within their points and shapes limits.

cost in diamonds, to two and a half (2.25♦), instead of just two.

Number of Players & Allies

The typical number of players to take part in a game of Three Plains is just two (one side each), but any number of players may take part in a battle. Often if there are more than two players in a game, the extra player becomes an ally with one side, sharing points and shapes with them. However, a group of people can decide to play the game with as many sides and allies as they like, as long as all are agreed upon this special arrangement before the game starts.

Army Devency

Hiring Mercenaries From The Mercenaries Of Many Army List

An Elf Imperial Army may hire and fill out its ranks with gaming pieces from the Mercenaries of Many Army List. Any Mercenary of Many gaming piece or number of them may be included in an Elf Imperial Army as long as the army still keeps within the agreed game size in points and shapes allowances.

However, for each Mercenary of Many piece added to an Imperial Elf army's ranks, it takes up an additional half a diamond (0.25♦), on top of any stars the Mercenary of Many piece may cost in the first place. For instance, an Mercenary of Many Slave Giant costs two diamonds (2♦), in their own Mercenaries of Many army list, but when hired by an Imperial Elf army to fight alongside them, this will boost the Giant's

Special Rules

Houses of Evernight

A player must pick one house to play with and cannot mix Vampires from other houses. Furthermore, each house can only take gaming piece into battle if they have their Insignia on gaming piece.

Skeletons

Why run when you are already dead..?

All Restless pieces cannot be forced to flee like the majority of all other living pieces can, which makes these pieces 'Unbreakable', as described in the Three Plains Rulebook on page **. Furthermore, the Restless will automatically pass all checks they face during a game, such as all Deviancy Checks and any others.

However, when the Restless suffer battle stress they must still take a check when appropriate, as the battle stress they suffer puts a large strain on their master's ability to keep their fighters' souls from returning back to the afterlife. Therefore, when a Restless piece takes any kind of battle stress check during a game total up the amount of battle stress they have suffered in that check, and roll out the restless' soldiering dice. For each +4 rolled, cancels out 1 battle stress against the Restless piece. For each battle stress point that is not cancelled out, deduct 1 life point from the Restless piece.

'Nothing' can save against the damage caused from 'Crumbling', and the life points lost must be dispersed upon the piece just like shooting damage is.

When the Restless suffer from 'Exhaustion', as described in the Three Plains Rulebook on page **, it puts a huge strain on their Master's hold over their souls. Therefore, if a Restless Piece should gain an endurance counter for dashing for instance, whilst exhausted, instead of placing down extra endurance counter next to that unit, it will suffer the loss of D3 life points instead. 'Endurance' is explained in the Three Plains Rulebook on page **.

If Restless crumbles to bits, the enemy will in combat during the battle stress phase of the game, the enemy will get a 'Wipe Out Bonus Move'.

All Skeleton Warriors cause +1 Fear.

Necromance Magic

Other than keeping your army size within your points limit, you need to keep within your army's shapes allowances too. Each one of these shapes have a different meaning and values in relation to just what pieces you are allowed to have within your army's ranks, which is explain below.

Vampires

Vampires can 'Regenerate' and are 'Undead' creatures, which means they are vulnerable to attacks affected by the 'Holy Warrior' special rule.

All Vampires must take one to three House's Blessings from the Blood King depending on their level. All blessings must be from their house's list of Blessings and cannot be mixed with other house's blessings.

A Thrall must take one blessing, a Count must take two blessings and a Lord must take three blessings. If a player wants to field the tooth barer from their house, they must take all their house's blessings.
